REFLECTION:

These Ethical Guidelines provide an overarching framework for the conduct of ART in both clinical practice and research and, when read in conjunction with federal and state or territory legislation, create a robust framework for the conduct of ART in Australia. These Ethical Guidelines cover all activities associated with ART as they occur in clinical practice, including routine practice associated with ART and practices that raise specific ethical issues. The 2017 National Health and Medical Research Council publication 'Ethical guidelines on the use of assisted reproductive technology in clinical practice and research' forms the basis for this session.
